Until Today
by John Johnson

Verse:

It's too early for breakfast
It's too late to dream
So long since you've been gone
it only seems like, yesterday

There have been other lovers
Can't remember the names
Like flowers on a hill side
On a sunny day

Chorus:

Screaming out in the morning
Daybreak comes without warning
Echoes that keep returning
Every single day
Until today

Verse:

Used to work for a jeweler
Baubles and gold
Shiny things are more valuable
When they get old

Everyone has a double
Their secret look alike
I saw your's yesterday
Just before midnight

Chorus

Eating Japanese steak
After juggling on a grill
Said I'd like a job like that
But know I never will

Doing what comes naturally
Is not a compromise
Sometimes truth only arrives
Riding in on a lie

Chorus
