There was a man

By John Woog Johnson

Verses:

There was a man with so many faces
He didn't know which one to shave.
A man with so many races,
He didn't know which one to save.

A man with so many opinions
He couldn't make up his mind.
A man moving so fast that
He wasn't ahead or behind.

A woman with so many genders
She didn't know who to love.
A woman who birthed the first man
And didn't know what she was.

A woman counting the angels
That dance on the head of a pin.
An angel that laughed for ages
Regarding the meaning of sin.

A soul from the past and the future
That sees everything as now.
A soul that is never required
To praise or ever needs to bow.

A soul with so many worlds
That they all just seem as one.
A soul goes on forever
And can never be undone.

Chorus:

Too often it's hard to tell the truth from a lie.

Every time you turn around you see yourself go by.

Forever has so many choices, it's hard to decide
